MARYVILLE COLLEGE

Dedicated to the memory of RUSSELL PARKER

Russell Parker, Sept. 1, 1987: An Anniversary

What can we carry forward from the first of September 1987?

Only that the lifted mist left the sky
Aching blue over the grey lake,
And that flowers glared red, yellow, and orange
Beside a pool pierced by no swimmer,
Alone, always succinct, leaving early
Moved us all to early adjournment.

What, then, is the final tally? Let us total up
The credits and debits in this final accounting.

First, then, what are our losses?

My friends, we will have no more
Of twinkling eyes over half glasses
And sly smirks through greyish beard
Always neatly trimmed
And we must dispense with
Sly socratic remarks in deft ironic tones
Yes, and we will be forced to forego
The shapeless jackets, mostly blue,
Which you all shook with a silent chuckle
At our all-too-human, far-too-frequent folly

What, then, may we show in the balance?

A Permanent Endowment
Of wit, wisdom, honor, and virtue —
A scholar's and gentleman's legacy —
Bequeathed to us all in perpetuity
Principles that are exhaustable,
Invested in values that our debt is high

Who will carry them? Friends, teachers, colleagues —

To whom we are grateful
That the debt will be forgiven
That a debt be forgiven

Let us then utterance all that we can of this bounty,

And let it be known

That we are all

Grateful to you all

For what you have

Thanks to the generosity of the Crawford family, Crawford House was restored and reopened last fall. Crawford House has become the headquarters for the Life Enrichment Center and the Mountain Challenge Program.

Gamble Hall, previously Dorm I, is no longer a generic, nameless orphan-child. It is now the namesake of Joe Caldwell Gamble, M.C. graduate of 1926; Chairman of the Board of Directors from 1953 to 1970; member of the Board from 1939 until his death in 1987.

NEW SPACES

NEW FACES

DORM LIFE

Moving back into the dorms — or into them for the first time — provides us with a shock absorber for the beginning of another year. Somewhere along the route from car-to-stairs-to-room-to-stairs-to-car, the notion that “Yes, indeed, here I am at college” hits one smack-dab between the eyeballs. For some, it’s an exciting and maybe even happy thought — others drag their feet — everybody drags stuff up “Stairs That Never End.” But seeing old friends again and making new ones is definitely worth the climb. Welcome home!

MOUNTAIN CHALLENGE

Under the direction of Bruce Guillaume and Larry Stanley, the Mountain Challenge program has become an exciting new force on campus. The Mountain Challenge program has assisted with the Inquiry classes by taking them on various outings, including the ropes course at Wesley Woods. Some of the activities sponsored by Mountain Challenge this past year included hiking in the Smokies, kayaking, rock climbing at Look Rock, and caving at the Lost Sea.

QUOTABLE QUOTES

Students on “the first week of school”

“There’s always something . . .” — Kathy North

“P-t-t-t-f!!” — Mary Jackson

“In this dormitory, there are not always people. My roommate comes back to our room at one o’clock in the mid-night. She studies very hard every day. That is my surprise at Maryville College.” — Tomoe Amano

“When’s the next plane home?” — Bryon Gamble

“Just say THANKS.” — Kirk Heinsohn

“This school is too small, but the teachers are very approachable. There’s nowhere to go without a car.” — Yasu Katayama

“Actually, I was really scared of some American’s hairstyles. Some of the football players shaved parts of their heads — and they are huge!!” — Mikako Oe

“When do I get to sleep?” — Michele Karr

SENIOR CLASS of 1988

Many cliches are used to describe the feelings of a graduating class. Every year, someone writes a poem or paragraph about the days gone by and how we are standing on the threshold of the future. Some quote Ecclesiastes, "To everything there is a season . . ." Everyone talks about how quickly the years have passed. It seems like only yesterday we were freshmen.

Reading the sentiments of graduating seniors, you would think they all had the same experience together. It is true that the feelings are much the same: the excitement — tempered with insecurity — of getting out into the real world, the tightness in your throat at the thought of leaving the people whom you have come to love and who have been your family for four years — and whom you may never see again. These mixed feelings are shared by most graduating seniors. The cliches fall short of the experience. Though there have been many valiant attempts to express the feeling, the only true record you can keep is within you.

At the risk of sounding trite,
I love you.
— a fellow M.C. graduate of '88

 Sigma Rho Girls — a new breed
 Long distance is free if you know the secret code
 Words of wisdom beneath our feet; Wally World?
 It's Worley's World!!
 M.C. trivia: Who is Wayne Anderson?
 The staff changes as much as our classmates do
 "Student Life" — surely we'll all die
 We "get by with a little help from our friends"
 We will be the forerunners of our future's quest

Growing up so fast
Forcing us to make the choice, the change,
for the better.
It doesn't make much sense,
but we've become a family, much closer than I ever thought I'd be to anyone.
We didn't grow up
together,
But we're growing
together now;
In a bond that can't be broken
Time won't allow us to be together for Time forces us to move ahead, to live thru the pain —
but it's okay;
For in the spirit
we are one.
With God and with ourselves,
For we've learned how to love.

— Written for the Class of 1988, in the Fall of 1984.

STUDENT PROFILE: Laura Wade

Laura Wade (pictured at left with her seven year-old horse, Queen of Hearts) started riding for fun five years ago. She has been riding seriously — six days a week — for the last three years. She mainly competes in shows but has been in two events.

She has won 36 ribbons; at least 24 of these were on her horse during the last two years.

"My horse and I did not do well in the events but hope to this year. We did accomplish being allowed to ride under Torrance Fliechman, who was an Olympic rider in the last two Olympic competitions."

STUDENT PROFILE:

Beth DeBow

Beth DeBow is a skiing member of a skiing family. Her father and mother, skiers of 15 years, encouraged their three daughters to ski and they have excelled at the sport.

Beth, 18, the eldest of the three, finished first in the 16 to 18 year-old category of the Coca Cola Junior Nastar (National Standard Race) program last year. She also earned a 24-handicap.

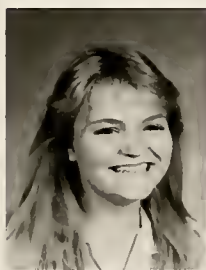

Beth began skiing when she was about five years old and continues to ski with her family at Ski Beach, North Carolina, where she and her sisters compete on the Ski Beach Racing Team. They have won their share of gold, silver, and bronze medals for their racing accomplishments.

STUDENT PROFILE: Steve Herbert

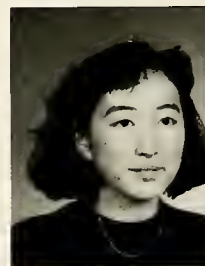

Steve Herbert, MC's only skydiver, began at age 19 in the summer of 1985 at what is now Sky-Dive New Orleans, in Covington, LA. He now has over 100 jumps. His highest jump was 16,500 feet and his longest freefall was approximately 90 seconds long. He has done some demonstration jumps but does not compete. Steve is in skydiving only for the love of the sport.

"Skydiving is not a dare-devil sport. Non-skydivers think that skydivers have a death-wish or are just in it for the thrill. Granted, it is very exhilarating, but the vast majority of skydivers do it because they have a life-wish and want to experience life to the fullest."

BIKE TENNESSEE 1988

Ten Maryville College bikers made their way across Tennessee on a 450 mile, ten-day bike tour. Their journey took them through Memphis, Jackson, Waverly, Dixon, Nashville, Lebanon, Sparta, Crossville, Oak Ridge, and back home to Maryville.

Team: Bruce Guillaume, Steve Herbert, Charlie Parsons, Aundra Ware, Matt Waylon, Raina Boring, Larry Stanley, Margot Eyring, Kandy Schram, and Leslie Nier.

Who is Student Programming? Well, if you asked an active member, she would say, "ALL Maryville College students." Despite their efforts to encourage involvement, the ever-dwindling group made many good times possible. They were responsible for Inauguration, Homecoming, February Fantasy, and May Madness/Spring Fling, as well as assisting other organizations with their events.

INAUGURATION CELEBRATION

Inauguration IX was celebrated with a weekend of festivities, beginning with a student-run carnival on Saturday morning and a special presidential ball in Pearsons on Saturday night. Sunday's ceremony included spokespersons from local and distant places, and music from organ, brass ensemble, and alumni-student choir.

Dr. Ferrin came to Maryville College on March 1, 1987. His undergraduate majors were religious studies and mathematics education. His graduate work was in education administration, higher education, and organizational behavior.

ALCOHOL POLICY PROTEST

In February, 1988, Dr. Ferrin presented a new alcohol policy. It was supposedly an irreversible decision made by the Board. The students and others connected with the college were not pleased. The main concern of the students was the fact that decisions about student and their lifestyles were being made without any student input.

After the organized protest, which was attended by Board members, the students were informed that the decision was not irreversible and supposedly had not been intended to be presented that way. Board members said they would consider and re-evaluate the policy.

Besides dismay over lack of representation students were concerned that the new policy would encourage students with alcohol problems to hide them rather than seek help. Also the current problems with enforcement remain unaddressed. The students felt enforcement would be as difficult, if not more so, with a stricter policy.

GOODBYE

Brick

oad

In this book we have attempted to recognize members of the student body who have received little or no recognition in the past. Of course, it is impossible to include everyone, especially with such limited resources and a full-time staff of only three. Our apologies to those who feel left out.

Gratitude from the Editor:

To Ronnie Ramsey, the Athletic Department, Dr. Cartlidge, Frank Bradley, Choir members, and others for loaning their pictures;

To Jennifer Chastain and Cathy Cain for running the darkroom;

To Jennifer, Cathy, Teri, Charlene, and Stephen for taking pictures;

To Scott Bruggess, Cassandra Andrews, and Jeannie Gorey who would have been able to contribute much more if I had been more organized;

To Dick Henson for ironing out the wrinkles; To Ms. Joanne Lax-Farr, who was very understanding and supportive through the whole ugly mess;

To Philip Perez, whom I love dearly for putting up with my bitching and always doing the work I gave to him at the last minute;

To Heather Farrar — photographer, darkroom technician, layout designer, picture cropper, copy writer and faithful friend, without whom this book would not exist;

THANK YOU!!

In case you had not noticed, the theme of this year's book is "roads." I know, it seems like a worn-out old theme that needs a break. Maybe it is, regardless of how often it has been used, however, it is still applicable.

This century has brought a great acceleration in road construction and usage. We have become a society of motorists with a "buckle up" mentality that allows us to safely experience life through a bug-spattered windshield. As motorists, we have many choices available to us. Please consider the following advice:

Don't map out your life so indelibly as to be inflexible. Don't feel as though you can only travel on roads with rest areas. Most importantly, don't be afraid to park your car and walk.

With all the sincerity I can muster,
Julie Marshall, editor.
